

Medical Disclaimer

Information presented on this website, including text, images, videos, and educational material, is provided for general awareness and patient education.

It is not a substitute for a detailed clinical examination, investigation, or personalised medical advice. Diagnosis and treatment decisions depend on individual patient factors and must be made during an in-person consultation with a qualified ophthalmologist.

Do not delay or disregard professional medical advice based on information obtained from this website.

In case of an eye emergency, please seek immediate medical attention.